

Written by Carl Belew, Van Givens and W Stevenson. Jim Reeves had a big hit with the song in 1968. Dean Martin and Bill Phillips also released notable versions in 1968.

Lyrics

You say it's over now but it's easy to see
You still belong to him, you're not happy with me
You can hide all your feelings, until he passes by
That's when I see the blues in your pretty brown eyes
Your pretty brown eyes, keep telling me lies
But you can't hide the hurt with a smile of disguise
You can hide all your feelings until he passes by
That's when I see the blues in your pretty brown eyes

Your pretty brown eyes, keep telling me lies
But you can't hide the hurt with a smile of disguise
You can hide all your feelings until he passes by
That's when I see the blues in your pretty brown eyes
That's when I see the blues in your pretty brown eyes
